BRUCE HEAD WORSE

News From the Patient's Bedside is Not so Cheering Today.

County Offices Burned at Scottsville, Ky., Last Night and Records Destroyed

REFUSED AT HOPKINSVILLE

HEAD IS WORSE.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 29.—Bruce Head's condition this morning at 7 o'clock was said to be worse than at any time since the shooting. The officials at the camp summoned Dr. R. L. Walker much earlier than usual to his bedside. Telephone communication with camp resulted in this statement: "He is much worse and his temperature is higher."

PUBLIC BUILDINGS BURNED.

Scottsville, Ky., Oct. 29.—The county and circuit court clerks' offices were destroyed by fire this morning at 2:30 o'clock. There was nothing saved except six record books, all the deeds and other valuable papers being burned. The origin of the fire is thought to have been from a stove.

REFUSED THE DIVORCE.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 19.—In the divorce case of Captain Cyrus S. Radford against his wife, Florence R. Radford, of Washington, D. C., Judge Cook this morning rendered a decision refusing to grant the divorce.

MADE COMPLETE PREPARATIONS.

Knoxville, Oct. 29.—John W. Poston, a prominent farmer, quarreled with his wife, made out his will, leaving all his property to his children and committed suicide by blowing off the top of his head with a shotgun.

WRECKED BY A COW.

Owensboro, Oct. 29.—A freight train on the Illinois Central railroad was wrecked at Dan station by a cow which ran across the track. Nine cars were overturned and some of them badly wrecked. Nobody was hurt.

THE FIRST ICE.

LAST NIGHT WAS VERY MUCH LIKE WINTER.

Government Weather Observer Bornemann reports 33-1-2 degrees as the minimum last night in Paducah. There was a heavy frost in this section and outside of Paducah it was much cooler than in the city.

Ice was found in many parts of the city, as well as in the county, and crockets were plentiful, while fires became a necessity.

The frost probably did considerable damage.

HIS SON IS MISSING.

MAN IN TENNESSEE WRITES TO LEARN IF HE IS HERE.

Postmaster F. M. Fisher has received a letter from John Gooden, of Detsonville, Tenn., making inquiry for his son, Jim Gooden, whom he says left for Paducah with Bill Freeman some time ago. Since that time all trace of him has been lost. If anyone knows of his whereabouts a favor will be conferred on the father by notifying him.

Mr. J. T. Myles the Louisville tobaccoist is at the Palmer on business.

A GOOD TIME COMING

Chief Collins Has Instructions as to What to Close Sunday.

The Temperance People Have Not Made Progress Enough to Justify Report.

PRESENT STATUS OF THE CASE

The gentlemen back of the fight for a local option election are very reticent about their plans, whatever they are. Chairman Toof stated this morning that he was not at liberty to talk, and has made no appointments that are ready for publication.

He declined to make a statement about the plans or whether there was, as reported, a prospect of rescinding the action of the mass meeting Sunday and declaring off the preparations for a local option fight. Mr. Toof said that probably there would be something to give out in a day or two, but that nothing will be given out until everything is ready.

There was a meeting of the retail liquor dealers yesterday afternoon, but action was postponed until Friday and nothing was done.

The general public is becoming thoroughly aroused, and a conservative element is hard at work to stop proceedings where they are.

A member of the building committee of the fraternity building stated this morning that a meeting of the committee is to be held Thursday at which the advisability of suspending everything until this question is settled, will be discussed. There seems to be a sentiment among some not to begin building, or take any further steps to build, until the confusion and uncertainty are cleared away.

Chief of Police Collins will send out notices to the various persons who will have to close up Sunday, and just now a great many toes are being tramped on in away little anticipated a week ago. This question of a closed town seems now to be engrossing the attention of the public more than that of local option.

City Attorney Jesse Gilbert, whose duty it is to prosecute all cases in the police court, has furnished to Chief of Police James Collins the following, which will govern Chief Collins in enforcing the law next Sunday, and which shows what must close on the Sabbath.

This is the first time it has been made public and doubtless it will prove of great interest to Paducahans.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 28, 1902. Mr. James Collins, Chief of Police, Paducah, Ky.

Dear Sir: In compliance with your request for a list of occupations prohibited by Section 1321, Kentucky Statutes, which is as follows: "No work or business shall be done on the Sabbath day, except the ordinary household offices, or other work required in the maintenance or operation of a ferry, skiff, or steamboat, or steam or street railroads. If any person on the Sabbath shall himself be found at his own, or any other trade or calling, or shall employ his apprentices, or other person, in labor or other business, whether the same be for profit or amusement, unless such as is permitted above, shall be fined not less than two nor more than fifty dollars for each offense. Every person or apprentice so employed shall be deemed a separate offense. Persons who are members of a religious society, who observe a Sabbath any other day in the week than Sunday, shall not be liable to the penalty prescribed in this section, if they observe a Sabbath one day in each seven, as here provided." The above is known as "the Sunday law" and will say that what is necessary is a question which has been differently construed by courts of last resort. In the case of The Commonwealth of Kentucky vs. Louisville and Nashville Railroad company, decided by Judge Pryor and reported in the Third Kentucky Law Reporter Judge Pryor says: "that no better definition can be given of the word necessity than the following, to

THE BEST TALENT

President Mitchell Will Have the Miners Cause Well Represented

The Name of David B. Hill as Counsel Has Been Mentioned in Washington.

THE COMMISSION STARTS OUT

Washington, Oct. 29.—There is every indication that the issue between the anthracite miners and the coal operators will be fought out before the strike commission with all the fierceness of a life and death cause, in court. On this account John Mitchell, representing the laborers, has been advised by high authority in Washington to employ the best legal talent obtainable. He has accepted the advice, and when the time comes for the hearings will have the miners represented by a lawyer of national reputation.

No decision has yet been reached but it is learned from good authority that the name of David E. Hill is under consideration.

It has been found that the operators will spare no expense in obtaining eminent legal talent to represent their case. When the hearings begin and the testimony supporting the contention of the strikers and the answer of the operators is taken, every point will be fought, and every possible legal technicality will be made use of. Witnesses will be cross-examined and legal means and methods adopted.

It was the intention of the miners to have Mr. Mitchell and his deputies represent their case to the end. He has conducted himself alone against all of the operators in all of the negotiations up to date with so much firmness and dignity that the other strike leaders have thought it best for him to continue singlehanded, but in view of the intentions of the operators to contest all of the issues with the best lawyers, Mr. Mitchell has decided that it would be wise for him to also employ a great lawyer, that the cause of the strike might not be in danger, and that the work of the commission might not be regarded on account of lack of knowledge of legal procedure on his part.

The issues brought out at the meeting yesterday, John Mitchell's status, the objection of Mr. Thomas to the word "arbitration," and the request of Mr. Baer that the case between each company and its men be considered separately, are considered to be practically settled, or, at last, threatening no danger or delay. The commission, itself, will decide what conditions can be investigated and passed upon as general and common to all companies, and what cases will be treated as special.

The commission left here this afternoon and arrive at Scranton tonight at 10:30 o'clock. The Forest City mines will be first investigated.

WANTED IN KENTUCKY

Negro Wounded, in Memphis Hospital, Shot at Wickliffe.

His Absence Relieved a Railroad Contractor of a Grave Charge Last Week.

VICTIM DECLINES TO TALK

A negro found badly wounded in Memphis a few days ago is not the one shot by Mrs. Fred Long, of Fulton, while attempting to burglarize the house, but is one wanted at Wickliffe, Ky.

The mystery was solved yesterday. His name is Charles Thomas, alias Tony, and he was found by the Memphis police last week at the Illinois Central depot suffering from a gunshot wound. The negro was sent to the city hospital, but refused to divulge any information concerning his critical condition. Several buckshot were located in his breast by the hospital surgeons. A woman was with him and was closely questioned by the authorities but she declined to say anything about it.

The negro's reticence relieved R. L. Cheshire, a railroad contractor at Wickliffe, Ky., of the grave charge of attempted murder. Two weeks ago Thomas, who is a hostler at the camp of Stroud and Cheshire, railroad contractors, six miles northwest of Wickliffe, began to imbibe freely of mean whiskey. He wound up in a state of howling intoxication. He shot several times at his wife and a male companion, but his aim was bad and no harm resulted. After roaming for several hours seeking excitement, he drew near the tent of his employers. Calling Mr. Cheshire out he deliberately aimed his pistol. The contractor had heard of the brawl that night and when he came out of the tent he had a shotgun with him. With this anticipation he was too quick for the negro and fired without lifting the gun into the usual position.

The wounded negro was picked up, and it was thought that he could not live. Mr. Cheshire gave himself up, and at the preliminary trial gave bond for $1,000. The regular trial was set for last Saturday. The wounded negro had flown, no one appeared against Cheshire and the case was dismissed. Later, it developed, that Thomas had gone to Memphis, and since been lingering in much agony at the hospital.

MURDERERS AT LEXINGTON.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 29.—The cases of Earl Whitney and Claude O'Brien, charged with the murder of merchant A. B. Chinn, have been set for the December term of the circuit court, and will be called on the first day.

Miss Lillian Rudy of Morganfield will arrive tomorrow on a visit to relatives.

COLON IS REJOICING

The Defeat of the Colombian Revolutionists is Reported.

Gen. Uribe Captured With Men and Ammunition, Which Ends Revolution.

NEWS RECEIVED AT CAPITOL

Panama, Oct. 29.—The revolutionary general Uribe Uribe, with ten cannon, 2,500 rifles and 300,000 rounds of ammunition, has surrendered to Gen. Marjarres at Rio Frio, near Santa Marta.

The revolutionary forces under Gen. Uribe Uribe, which were defeated October 14 at La Cienega, retreated to Rio and Frio and took up positions there. Gen. Marjarres, with 2,000 men, proceeded against the rebels from La Cienega and engaged the enemy two days later. The government general succeeded in surrounding the rebels and forcing them to surrender.

Gen. Castillo was with Gen. Uribe Uribe.

The news of this victory was received here by Gen. Perdomo and Gov. Salazar in a telegram from Gen. Marjarres. Details of the engagements are lacking, but heavy casualties on both sides are reported.

The surrender of Uribe Uribe is said to complete the pacification of the department of Magdalena and Bolivar. The revolutionists now occupy the isthmus only.

In the fight of October 14 at La Cienega the revolutionary force consisted of 1,300 men.

THE NEWS IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Confirmation of the news of the surrender of Gen. Uribe Uribe was contained in the following dispatch, received at the Colombian legation here last night:

"Panama, Oct. 28.—Uribe Uribe and Castillo surrendered at La Cienega with a large quantity of arms and ammunition."

The legation officials declare that with the surrender of Uribe Uribe the life of the rebellion in the interior of Colombia has received its death blow, and that the complete pacification of that portion of the country must inevitably follow. He was, they say, the acknowledged leader of the movement against the government, and by his energy and perseverance in raising and equipping troops and securing assistance from the outside has kept the revolution going for several years.

MAY BE NO TRIAL.

NOT CERTAIN WHAT WILL BE DONE IN THE BRIGGS-GARR CASE.

The trial of the case in which Rev. G. W. Briggs is charged with cutting Mr. T. J. Garr, proprietor of The Inn, is set for tomorrow in the police court. An effort is being made to keep the affair out of the courts, which is the desire of all concerned to do, but with what effect is uncertain at present. Mr. Garr is not badly hurt, and may be able to get out by tomorrow. No warrant has yet been issued, as Mr. Garr is unable to go before the authorities and give the necessary information.

Chief of Police Collins said that summons would be taken out against Mr. Garr to appear and answer questions. At the city hall a reporter was informed that the officers of the law are powerless to stop a prosecution of this nature when it is within their power to secure witnesses and that they would have to let the case go the rounds of the courts, the prosecution being on part of the commonwealth, and not Mr. Garr.

ONLY A FEW VOTERS REGISTER

Today is the last day the voters who were ill during the registration days or absent from the city have to register, and up until press time 5 Republicans, 1 independent and 14 Democrats had registered.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Decker left this morning for Memphis to be gone several days.

WAS A NOTED CASE

The First Communist Society's Last Chapter Written.

Court of Appeals of the United States Decides in Favor of the Defendant.

HISTORY OF THE CASE

Washington, Oct. 29.—The announcement that the United States Supreme court has decided the case of Christian Schwartz et al. against John S. Duss et al. in favor of the defendant Duss brings to a close a remarkable case with a more remarkable story attached. It is the last chapter in the history of the first communist society ever founded in America, and tells of the emigration from Wurttemberg, nearly a hundred years ago, of a band of fanatical and ignorant peasants, led and influenced by one George Rapp, described as superior to the people about him and able to control them absolutely. Rapp, in 1800, preached a new gospel—that the Lord had chosen him as the spiritual leader of the people, and in order to save themselves from damnation, a separation from the church and an emigration to either the Holy Land or America was incumbent upon them. They chose the latter place and in 1804 settled in Butler county, Pa., the remnant of the society now consisting of only "a few aged and infirm women," presided over by Duss. Land is owned by them in the city of Pittsburgh worth $4,000,000, in addition to a savings bank.

The petitioners are descended from the seceders of the old society, who claim that the original principle of community of goods has long since departed; that the society has ceased to exist, and that the lands should be divided. The supreme court has decided against them and in favor of Duss and the old women. Upon reaching America, Rapp laid down ironclad rules, which were followed without the slightest deviation. All possessions were yielded to the common stock, thus forming the first American Communist Society. Rapp explained to them that this had been done by the apostles when awaiting Christ's second coming. Rapp acted as sole judge and jury, prescribed the hours of working and rest and the nature and amount of food to be eaten. A decree issued by Rapp in 1807 enforced celibacy upon the whole community and separated husbands and wives.

In 1814 the society emigrated to Posey county, Ind., but after eleven years returned to Pennsylvania. When Rapp died in 1874 the government passed into the hands of a board of elders, which now consists of Duss and one of his relatives.

STOLE A DOG.

THIS IS THE CHARGE REGISTERED AGAINST ISAAC JACOBS.

Isaac Jacobs, colored, was arrested this afternoon by Officer Emil Gourieux on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses.

It is claimed that he stole a dog and sold it to A. Hodges, another negro. Hodges appeared with the officer to take out the warrant, the dog having been taken away from him by the owner, who claimed it was stolen Jacobs refused to return the money and Hodges resorted to the law. Jacobs used to be considered a champion chicken thief a few years ago.

INSTANTLY KILLED.

DEADLY WORK OF AN ILLINOIS CENTRAL TRAIN.

William Goode, a farmer of near Greenville, Ky., was struck by an I. C. train last night shortly after dusk and instantly killed.

His head was severed from his body and also was his right arm. Goode tried to cross ahead of the train and did not exercise the proper speed and was caught. He was a middle-aged man and left several relatives in that section.

Mrs. Eliza Dipple is quite ill at her home on Adams street.

GETTING WORSE.

WESTERN PREACHER CREATES A SENSATION ON RACE PROBLEM.

Muscatine, Iowa, Oct. 29—A sensation was created here by the Rev. J. L. Murphy, of the English Lutheran church, who said in a lecture on the race problem that the study of the sociological condition of the negro today proves that he is deteriorating in this country, will later lapse into barbarism and finally become extinct.

He points out that before the war the negro was trustworthy and the honor of any woman of the south was safe without the protection of white men. Today, however, a white woman scarcely dares venture forth alone. Mr. Murphy says that not only is the black man becoming degraded morally in the south, but also physically. Physicians testify that he is more susceptible to disease than a few years ago and especially in pulmonary troubles. Pneumonia is almost always fatal.

The position taken by Mr. Murphy is that in time the progressive class of blacks will tire of the conditions in this country and return to their former African home to teach their fellow blacks while those left in this country will then rapidly become extinct.

ANOTHER LOTTERY

Reported That the Old Louisiana Lottery Will be Revived.

An Application Will Be Made For a Charter—Resume December, 1904.
According to Reports.

WILL PAY $1,500,000 ANNUALLY

New York, Oct. 29—A New Orleans telegram to the Herald says:

Louis A. Gourdain, of lottery fame, announces that he will obtain a new charter for the Louisiana Lottery company and resume business in New Orleans. The capital stock of the new concern will be $10,000,000, of which $3,000,000 will be preferred. Shares will cost $100 each.

"We established the Louisiana Grand Lottery Co. January, 1890, and conducted it successfully for four years," said Gourdain, in speaking of his project, "and we will resume business December, 1904."

Gourdain was positive in making this assertion, and he has had letterheads printed bearing a similar statement. The letterheads represent the business firm of J. K. Morgan and Co., a new concern that will open a banking business, it is said at 732 Common street.

Gourdain says he is the president, and the name of J. A. Mahl appears at the bottom of certificates of deposit as cashier.

"The ultimate object in establishing the firm of Morgan and Co., bankers," said Gourdain, "is to resume a lottery business. I am positive that we can start a lottery two years from now, as I feel sure that the legislature will re-submit the lottery question to a vote of the people, and they will accept our offer of $1,500,000 annually, or half the profits of the lottery, as taxes."

So sure is Gourdain that lotteries will be legalized in Louisiana two years from now that he has decided to issue certificates of stock bearing 4 per cent interest annually, to be paid in gold December 31, 1904, or exchanged for preferred shares of $100 each of the Louisiana Grand Lottery Co. at $25 a share.

The new firm of Morgan and Co., bankers, purposes to issue two kinds of certificates—those secured by bank stock and not entitled to an extra 4 per cent monthly dividend from the time they are deposited, and those that are entitled to the extra dividend, payable on the 17th of each month.

MESOZOIC RELICS FOUND.

CRETACEOUS OYSTERS DISCOVERED AT DEPTH OF 450 FEET IN NEBRASKA.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 29—Some very valuable relics of the Mesozoic age have just been unearthed near Sutton, Neb. Among the specimens were a large number of cretaceous oysters, which were found at a depth of 450 feet. The specimens have been carefully boxed and will be immediately shipped to the state museum at Lincoln. A large party from the university of Nebraska will leave at once for the scene of these finds and conduct further explorations.

THROWN OUT OF COURT.

LEWIS LAMB LONES HIS SUIT TO RECOVER BODY OF PETRIFIED MAN.

Evansville Ind., Oct. 29—The suit of Lewis Lamb against John P. Eigenmann, to recover the body of the petrified man taken from the river here some time ago, was tried before a special judge in the circuit court here this afternoon. The case was thrown out of court. Lamb claimed he was entitled to the possession of the body, as he helped to take it from the river.

ELECTION OFFICER CHANGES.

The election commissioners of McCracken county, Messrs. J. J. Dorian, Job Randall and Sheriff Potter, have made the following changes in the precinct officers: George Lee in place of Captain Cook as judge at Kirkpatrick's; John Murray, Sr., in place of M. Mitchell at Diegel's; C. Harding and Frank Simpson in place of two other Republicans at Lamont; H. C. Jett in place of J. E. Jett at Milan; Clyde Cooper in place of Logan Brown at Gallman's.

Mr. S. T. Payne Jr. went to Ogden's Landing today on business.

Parents' Responsibility Great

It is the right of every child to be well born, and to the parents it must look for health and happiness. How inconceivably great is the parents' responsibility, and how important that no taint of disease is left in the blood to be transmitted to the helpless child, entailing the most pitiable suffering, and marking its little body with offensive sores and eruptions, catarrh of the nose and throat, weak eyes, glandular swellings, brittle bones, white swelling and deformity.

How can parents look upon such little sufferers and not reproach themselves for bringing so much misery into the world? If you have any disease lurking in your system, how can you expect well developed, healthy children? Cleanse your own blood and build up your health, and you have not only enlarged your capacity for the enjoyment of the pleasures of life, but have discharged a duty all parents owe to posterity, and made mankind healthier and happier.

There is no remedy that so surely reaches deep-seated, stubborn blood troubles as S. S. S. It searches out even hereditary poisons, and removes every taint from the blood, and builds up the general health. If weaklings are growing up around you, right the wrong by putting them on a course of S. S. S. at once. It is a purely vegetable medicine, harmless in its effects, and can be taken by both old and young without fear of any bad results.

Write us about your case, and let our physicians advise and help you. This will cost you nothing, and we will also send our book on blood and skin diseases.

Mrs. Frank Grosvenor,

No. 212 Twenty-first St., Galveston, Tex.

GALVESTON, TEX.,
March 13, 1902.

For three years after my marriage I felt peculiar bearing-down pains such as I had never experienced before. I tried different remedies but found it was only money wasted. I then consulted a physician who treated me for two months and then said my ovaries were diseased and that I would never get well unless I had an operation. I knew that would mean that I would never have a child and I dreaded the ordeal. I changed physicians but found this did not help me any, and I was in despair.

My sister-in-law then visited me and when I told her of my trouble she said: "If you had used common sense and Wine of Cardui you would not have been in such a plight." She had used it in her own home and it had carried her through three times when she had children. I sent for some at once and took it faithfully and now find to my great joy that it was all she claimed for it. New strength and with it new hope came back to me and it seemed as if every dose gave me new life. Within three months I was changed from a dragged out mortal weary of life to a hearty, healthy woman full of ambition and life. No operation was needed and better than all I became the mother of a little girl, the pride and joy of the household. I have had two other children since without a particle of trouble. I am well and never take any medicine but Wine of Cardui. I only write that other poor sick women could know of this life-giving medicine and would take it without spending time and money on doctors, who don't cure.

Mrs. Frank Grosvenor

WINE OF CARDUI, the simple remedy which Mrs. Grosvenor advises you to take has transformed her from a sick, discouraged woman to the bright, happy, healthy person you see in this portrait. Instead of languishing on a bed of sickness Mrs. Grosvenor is now equipped for any duty of womanhood. There are some chronic cases which no medicine can cure but nineteen out of every twenty sufferers today may have the health Mrs. Grosvenor has if they will only take the Wine of Cardui treatment as Mrs. Grosvenor took it. This vegetable Wine regulates the menstrual flow, making this important function both healthful and painless. The bearing-down pains which make life a torture stop when Wine of Cardui is used and the terrible smarting pains and the inflammation cease. Though powerful in correcting the irregularities of menstruation, Wine of Cardui is a very mild medicine. Any woman may take it without a doctor's supervision, although doctors often give it to their patients when their own remedies fail. This Wine of Cardui treatment is taken quietly at home. No embarrassing private examinations or offensive operations are necessary. If you secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui and begin taking it today you will feel health returning before the month is up. Why not secure a dollar bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist at once? Do not accept any other medicine but the Wine of Cardui treatment which Mrs. Grosvenor writes about.

"SEE THAT OLD FARMER?" WHERE?

PORTER'S GRAVE.

DRUMMERS ERECT ONE OVER UNION CITY DARKEY.

Union City, Oct. 29.—There has been erected over the remains of George Lee, colored, in the negro cemetery here, by the drummers who had been stopping at the hotels where George was porter for more than a quarter of a century, and by the contributions of others, a nice monument which bears the dates of his birth and death and the following inscription: "On that bright immortal shore, We shall meet to part no more. "Sacred to the memory of George W. Lee. Erected by his many friends to whom he has been a faithful public servant for 30 years. May he rest in peace."

Lee, who had been with the Brackin house here over 20 years and with the Palace since it was built seven or eight years ago, as porter, was probably the best known colored man in the state. His death was caused by a splinter sticking in his thumb, causing blood poisoning.

NO FEDERAL WARRANT.

POWELL SCOTT HAS THUS FAR ESCAPED PROSECUTION.

Deputy U. S. Marshal George Saunders, of Mayfield, arrived in the city this morning from Columbus, Ky., where he had gone to serve some court papers.

Marshal Saunders stated that there would be no warrant issued by the federal authorities against Powell Scott, the white bootlegger arrested and fined here for selling whiskey last Sunday, as only one offense has thus far been made out against him. It takes two sales of liquor to secure a warrant in the federal court. Marshal Saunders was present at Scott's trial, thinking that sufficient evidence would be secured to warrant a charge in his court.

WESTERN HOME SEEKERS.

A LARGE EXODUS OF PEOPLE DURING PAST TWO MONTHS.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—The Record-Herald says: Between 40,000 and 50,000 colonists have gone into the far western and southwestern states during the months of September and October. The movement of home seekers and settlers has never before been so great in the history of western railroads. During the present week, which is the last of the $33 rate to the Pacific coast, the railroads will carry fully 20,000 colonists out of Chicago, St. Paul, St. Louis and other large cities in the middle west. The Santa Fe alone will carry at least 3,000 persons during the week, orders having been given for 75 cars thus far.

THE SYNOD.

SEVERAL PADUCAHANS GO TO PRINCETON TO ATTEND.

Mr. Lucy Threlkeld went to Princeton this morning as a delegate from the local Cumberland Presbyterian church to the meeting of the Kentucky Synod or the Cumberland Presbyterian church.

Rev. J. O. Reid, the local pastor, and wife, went yesterday accompanied by Miss Frankie Stone, and will remain through the three days' session. The meeting began this morning and the attendance is large.

PADUCAH KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS MADE A GOOD SHOWING.

Most of the Paducah delegation of the Knights of Pythias returned from Louisville last night, but Messrs. Al Young, S. A. Hill, L. S. Gleaves and Harry Atkins remained and will probably return tonight.

The Paducah crowd, which went up to compete for the prizes offered the best drilled companies, won third prize, the per cent being 80.63. The crowd arrived late, and a meeting was held before they arrived at which lots were drawn and Paducah won first place, some one else drawing for Captain Kulp. The train had not arrived at the time for the drill, and as soon as the Paducahans arrived they were notified. In the meantime they had secured sixth place and put up a good drill, many being of the opinion that they should have second prize.

The first prize was won by Covington and the second by Owensboro.

MOTHERS.

Who would keep their children in good health, should watch for the first symptoms of worms, and remove them with White's Cream Vermifuge. It is the children's best tonic. It gets digestion at work so that their food does them good, and they grow up healthy and strong. 25c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

CAR SHORTAGE THREATENED

UNUSUAL DEMAND OCCASIONED BY THE RESUMPTION OF COAL MINING.

New York, Oct. 29.—Railroad officials declare that the indications of a serious car shortage throughout the country are becoming more and more pronounced, and the outlook is causing no little apprehension, says the Journal of Commerce. The movement of general freight, both east and west bound, is reported to be unusually heavy. Under normal conditions the principal lines would find their facilities heavily taxed. The termination of the coal strike, however, and the resumption of mining has resulted in an abnormal demand for cars of all kinds suitable to carry coal by the anthracite roads, and the heavy coal shipments are expected to severely tax the hauling power of these lines. All rail grain has not yet started to come forward to any great extent, but will begin to move in large quantities next month, and then, judging from all present indications, the officials declare the lines will witness one of the greatest car shortages on record. All the trunk lines are using their utmost endeavors to enforce the per diem agreement to hurry the return of their cars.

THE ELKS.

SOCIAL SESSION A SUCCESS—OTHER MEETINGS LAST EVENING.

Mr. Harry Johnston, chairman of last night's social session of the Elks, saw that all had a good time, and there was a large crowd out.

The usual jolly features were conspicuous and it was one of the most pleasant sessions ever held.

Yesterday was the 34th anniversary of the A. O. U. W., founded at Meadville, Pa., in 1868, but local lodges did not celebrate it.

The Maccabees last night held a delightful social session, at which Deputy State Commander Cline made an address, and speeches were made by Messrs. Ben and James Weille and Warren Morrison, of Paducah. Fourteen new members were initiated and the evening was most delightfully spent.

BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXIONS

are spoiled by using any kind of preparation that fills the pores of the skin. The best way to secure a clear complexion, free from sallowness, pimples, blotches, etc., is to keep the liver in good order. An occasional dose of Herbine will cleanse the bowels, regulate the liver, and so establish a clear, healthy complexion. 50c at DuBois, Kolb and Co.

Bids for printing the revised ordinances of Paducah were ordered in by Friday by the printing committee at a meeting held yesterday afternoon.

SAWDUST ABLAZE.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED TO SOWELL'S MILL.

The fire departments were called to Sowell's mill in Mechanicsburg this morning about 2 o'clock to extinguish a blaze in the sawdust pile.

The fire originated in the early evening from a spark from the furnaces and was not discovered until it had gained considerable headway. No damage was done and the firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze in about an hour.

IN TELEPHONE OFFICE.

A NUMBER OF CHANGES TO BE MADE IN NEAR FUTURE.

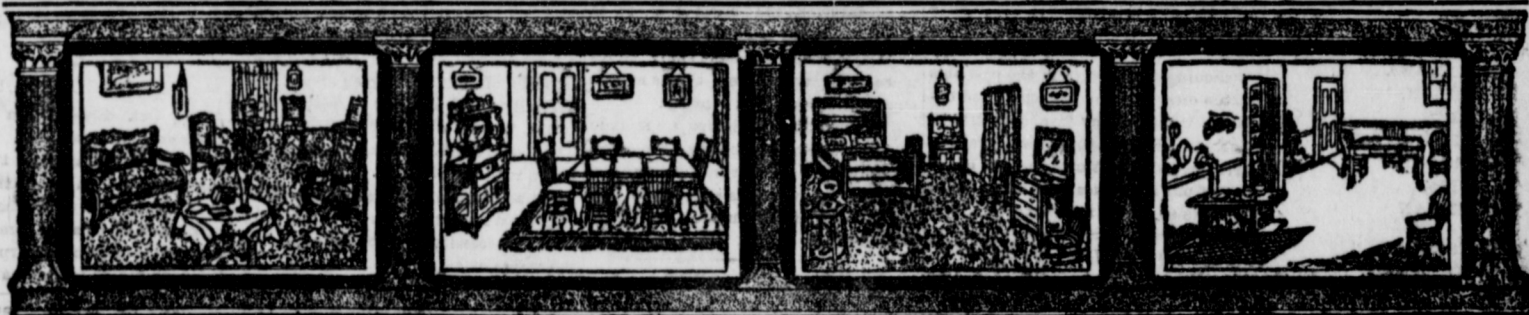

Manager A. L. Joynes is preparing to make some change in the telephone building on the lower floor. He is now at work on plans for the changes. The machinery in the power room is to be moved to another portion of the lower floor, and the long distance switch board and toll room, now in the front portion of the building will be moved into the rear and the book-keeper will occupy the front room.

It will likely be several weeks before the work is completed.

THE WEATHER.

Fair tonight and Thursday. Warmer Thursday.

If the worst comes to the worst
we can go to Mayfield to spend Sunday.

Louisville is boasting of her first snowfall of the season. It feels as if we'll be "next."

If a rise in the river should come suddenly and we had the muddy water we shall have later on there would not be a vote cast against the water works proposition.

The sultan of Turkey is getting economical. He is to cut down the expenses of his harem from $625,000 to $250,000 a year. He must be getting in desperate straits for money.

Seeing the hopelessness of their case, the Democrats have started the report that the Democrats don't want to carry the next house. It would be interesting to know what they would do if they really wanted to.

Cuba will one day regret the ingratitude she has shown towards her benefactor, the United States. The treaty with us has not been ratified,
and has not even been presented for ratification. Evidently the amateur statesmen of the infant republic think we are mighty good, or mighty green.

The Colombian government desires to gorge the United States, and wants about twice as much as it is worth to make the concessions desired by the promoters of the canal project. Our neighbor will find that she has struck a snag. Uncle Sam's philanthropy, however, towards such governments has about come to a close.

Yes, it seems very remarkable

There are many men of many minds, just as there are many birds of many kinds,
and for this reason sensational advertising is effective with some people, precisely
as sensational newspapers have their votaries. But with a big majority of civilized people those advertisements are most effective which are business-like and which do not exhaust their energies in promises of rainbow hues.

PLAYING HOG

Colombian Government Trying to Skin Uncle Sam.

Wants Ten Million Dollars For a Canal Treaty—Offered $7,000,000.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The long expected response of the Colombian government to the proposition made by the state department for the negotiations of a canal treaty on the lines of the Spooner act has reached Washington and been presented to the state department.

For one thing, the Colombian government now is entirely dissatisfied with the small amount of the payment to be made to it by the United States under the terms of the protocol, which it is proposed to use as the basis for the treaty. This sum is $70,000,000.
Colombia wants at least $100,000,000.
Moreover, the original proposal looked to a wait of 14 years
before beginning the payment of annual rental, the amount of which was to be then fixed by mutual agreement.
Colombia now asks the United States to agree at once on a lump yearly payment of $600,000, which will considerably increase the immediate cost of the enterprise. The Colombian government clings to its contention that it has no constitutional authority to alienate any Colombian territory and reiterates that the best it can do to meet the language of the Spooner act, which looks to perpetual control by the United States over the canal strip, is to make a 100 year lease, with a distinct stipulation that the same shall be renewable by the United States at the expiration of the first century.

The response is believed to include representations respecting American naval officers' recent interference on the isthmus, which is expected to prevent immediate resumption of treaty negotiations.

CIRCUIT COURT

A Damage Suit Against the Street Car Company on Trial.

Lumber Suit Given to the Jury This Forenoon.

The James Ferriman against the E. Bodenheimer damage suit case was finished this morning and given to the jury at 11 o'clock. Ferriman sued for $1,760 damages on a lumber contract. He claimed he contracted to deliver lumber to the plaintiff who later refused it at the price agreed on and he had to sell to others at a loss of the above amount.

In the case of John P. Muller and others against W. H. Muller, administrator, and others, an agreed judgment was filed. The suit was over the will of the late Mrs. Barbara Muller, and by agreement the will filed as that of the deceased was adjudged not her last will and a division of the estate ordered.

In the case of H. F. Faughan against Mike Iseman, a judgment for the sale of property was filed.

J. W. Whitelaw was granted a divorce from Annie Whitelaw.

At press time the case of Fairfax
Craig against the Paducah Railway and Light Co. was on trial. Craig has brought a damage suit against the company claiming damages for being put off a car after he had paid his fare. He claims Houston Wilkerson, a motorman then in charge of the car,
put him off after he had deposited a nickle in the fare box.

FAMOUS MARQUETTE TREE.

Branches Once Sheltered Altar of Noted French Missionary.

There stands in Gougar's grove, near Kankakee, what is doubtless the most famous tree in the confines of the state. It is believed to be over 500 years old and its gnarled branches have sheltered many noted men in its time. The tree is seven feet in diameter and has been a great place for picnics for many years. Congressman Holman many years ago found some ancient French coins and other relics near the tree. When Pere Marquette in 1672 made his great exploring and missionary tour through the North American possessions of Louis XIV. he made the descent of the Kankakee river and it is a well authenticated fact that he set up an altar under the branches of this tree and celebrated mass. The tree then stood in the center of the grove, but from year to year the river has cut in until it now
washes the roots of the venerable king of the forest. Every effort is being made to preserve the tree, but some of the limbs are dead and others dying.

RICKETY CHILDREN.

As likely to think of chairs
as of children when we use that word rickety.

Children with loose joints,
bow-legs, and soft bones have rickets. It is a disease due to improper feeding—and a typical disease for the workings of Scott's Emulsion.

For the weak growth of the bones Scott's Emulsion supplies those powerful tonics, the hypophosphites.

For the loss of flesh Scott's Emulsion provides the nourishing cod-liver oil in an easily digestible form.

It is these things that account for the rapidity with which Scott's Emulsion cures rickets.

Rickety children improve in every way under its influence.

A GOOD TIME COMING

wit: The law regards that as necessary which the common sense of the country, in its ordinary mode of doing business, regards as necessary. Things that are really—but not apparently—a necessity can be done on the Sabbath day, but it is impossible and certainly not practical to draw the line of distinction between work of necessity and such labor as falls within the denunciation of the Statute.
The court further says, in the case
above referred to, that it is not disposed to venture so far as to attempt to place a limit to the meaning of the word "necessity," when applied to the wants of man.

It has been held that to keep drug stores open on Sunday for any other purpose than to dispense medicine for the sick, upon the prescription of a physician, is unlawful, and I think that this occupation falls within the statute except as above stated. It has also been held that to keep open grocery stores, dry goods stores, clothing stores or to sell any other kind of merchandise on Sunday, is a violation of Section 1321. It has also been held that to keep a livery stable open on Sunday for the purpose of hiring vehicles to persons who hire them for the purpose of pleasure, is prohibited by the Statute, although the liveryman
may keep his stable open for the convenience of his customers who keep their own horse in his stable. It has been held that drugstores cannot even sell cigars on the Sabbath; neither can hotel proprietors except to their guests.
The running of street car and railroad trains is not prohibited, but to do general repair work in railroad shops is within the inhibition of the statute.
The mere fact that pecuniary loss will result in any business does not of itself show that the work is one of necessity, and because the work can be more conveniently done on Sunday
will not prove it within the exception.
To keep saloons open on Sunday is also a violation. The selling of soda water or any other beverage on Sunday
is also prohibited.

The court of appeals in this state has said that "this statute is only a civil regulation, enacted from motives of public policy, and to discuss it in a religious point of view would be to attribute to the legislature the exercise of a power it does not possess, that is to enforce the performance of religious duties." It has also been held in the case of Henrietta Ormsby et al. vs
City of Louisville, that to publish a newspaper on Sunday is a violation of Section 1321, Kentucky Statutes. The selling of newspapers or other periodicals on Sunday has been held to be a violation of the law, but book stores
or news dealers may deliver their papers to regular customers. But in conclusion I desire to again state, that it may be said in general that the law regards that as necessary which the common sense of the country in its ordinary mode of doing business regards
as necessary, taking into consideration
the wants of the people and the customs of the country.

Telegraph companies should be allowed to handle no ordinary business messages. Very respectfully,

JESSE M. GILBERT.

PALMA OBJECTS

It is Still Believed Cuba Will Decide on a Treaty.

The State Department's Proposition
Was Not an Ultimatum.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The fact recorded in the news dispatches from Havana, that President Palma has returned to Washington the draft of the reciprocity treaty without his approval, has not shaken the belief of the officials here that they will have a treaty ready to submit to congress by the date of its next meeting. As soon as Mr. Quesada, the Cuban minister here, receives the document, he will submit it to Secretary Hay. The latter already has knowledge of the general nature of the objections found by the Cuban government. The negotiations will be continued on the basis of the original draft.

For it is explicitly stated that the proposition submitted by the state department was in no sense an ultimatum and the matter is still open to adjustment. Generally stated, the Cuban objections are based on a belief that the United States has demanded undue concessions in the remissions of duties on United States products entering Cuba, ranging all the way from 10 per cent to 80 per cent in return for a 20 per cent cut on Cuban sugar and tobacco coming into the United States. As the difference is one strictly of figures and not of principle, it is the opinion at the state department that it can be settled amicably.

THE HAGUE COURT.

Paris, Oct. 29.—Foreign Minister
Del Casse has announced that Germany, Great Britain and France had agreed with Japan to submit to the Hague Arbitration court the exact interpretation of existing treaties dealing with the holding of perpetual leases of property by foreigners in Japan.

TALE OF TWO SNORERS.

Mean Trick Resorted to to Secure
Some Needed Sleep.

Away out west lives a judge who not only "snORES out the watches of night," but in addition makes those so unfortunate as to be within earshot
of his nasal performance keep awake, says the New York Tribune. For this reason his daughter made a contrivance
which the judge at first obediently wore. It was effectual in stopping the noise, but the straps hurt his ears and he threw it aside, and now his family thinks the only feasible scheme
seems to be for the judge to sleep
away from home.

Recently he came east, and his sleeping car section was next to that of a fellow traveler who as a snorer
was even worse, the judge thinks.
The latter could not get to sleep, for just as he would get used to his neighbor's crescendo and would be dropping off, a change would follow,
and he would be wide awake again.

In relating the tale afterward he told how he fitfully tossed about, until a happy thought came to him. He pounded on the partition between the berths until his neighbor was awake
and making heated remonstrance.
Then the judge fell asleep before the other could renew his nasal pyrotechnics, and, it is safe to say, kept the other man awake the night through.

BY GEOMETRICAL PROGRESSION.

Farmer Made His Bill Real Reasonable, After All.

"Funny things happen down here," said Prof. Reginald A. Fessenden, the inventor of the new, wireless telegraph system, who has been experimenting with it at Roanoke island for the last two years. "One day a man living down here on this island found that somebody had shot one of his shoots. He got the bullet out, and brought it to me and asked whether I had a gun that that bullet fitted. I said I had, and he demanded $25 for the shooting of the shoot.

"My good sir," I said, "in the first place, I didn't shoot your shoot, and therefore decline to pay anything. In the second place, I should like to know why on earth you want $25 for
it. Twenty-five dollars is enough to buy a squadron of shoots on Roanoke island."

"Well," he said, "I figger it this way. I calculate that if that 'ere shoot had lived it'd a hat seven shoots
when it grew up; each one o' them
seven shoots would a had seven shoots, an'—"

But the professor's auditors, says
the New York Times, told him he needn't go on with the calculation.

Morning in the Country.

Only the born countryman rises
with the sun to enjoy the freshest and loveliest part of the day, which is between sunrise and 8 a. m. The casual or vacation countryman rises
with the breakfast bell, which is generally rung at the accommodating hour of 7:30. The farmer rightly thinks that the urban visitor is fit
only to take money from.—Boston Journal.

THE KING.

BY BARRY PAIN.

Mr. Wilfred Camp thought that a walking tour would be a good thing.
One night a week later, at about 10 o'clock, he found himself lost on a Yorkshire moor. His feet were weary;
his new knapsack was heavy; his road map was all wrong; he was thirsty and sleepy. In this condition
he was extremely glad to sight at last
a very small cottage with a light burning in the window. That meant a rest and a direction. There would also be something in the way of supper. Wilfred quickened his steps and knocked gently on the door of the cottage.

The door was opened, considerably
to Wilfred's surprise, by a gaunt old gentleman in evening dress. Wilfred had expected a peasant, but he pulled himself together and told his story and made his requests as well as he could.

"You are the second stranger that has called here within these 20 years,"
said the old gentleman. "I came here
to be out of the world, which had ceased to want me, and yet the world drifts
in. But do not let me seem ungracious.
Such hospitality as I am able to offer is entirely at your service. Pray come in."

The old man led the way into a small book lined living room. "I must tell you," he added, "that I have no servant, live by myself and am accustomed to do everything for myself. You will excuse any shortcomings."

For the life of him Wilfred could not help his glance straying to that perfect shirt front. "Yes, I know," said the old gentleman. "It does seem inconsistent. It is an old habit. Let us hope that it may help me to act as your waiter with a skill that shall not lag too far behind my good will or the part. Please be seated and excuse me for a few moments while I prepare supper for you."

Wilfred's offer of assistance was declined, and an excellent and simple meal was soon ready. It was only when he had finished the omelet and was pouring out the last glass of the old burgundy that his curiosity got the better of his appetite and his discretion. He tried a leading question.

"Certainly," said the old gentleman,
with a courteous smile, as he handed the cigar box. "It is natural that you should be asking yourself who this amiable lunatic may be. Potentially I am king of the world. Born in the right age and in the right stage of civilization—or, if you prefer it, barbarism—I should unquestionably have been the king of the world. The iron, scientific, conventional, civilized world of today is too strong for me. When you contend against it, it gives you seven years' penal servitude. I myself have done seven years' penal servitude."

"You are jesting, of course," said Wilfred Camp.

"I never jest. There is little dignity in it. I was fellow of my college at the time of the sentence, many years ago.
When I came out, my relatives and a few friends were ready with advice,
penitential gibberish and forgiveness.
Others were ready to despise or mistrust. I could not understand the point of view of any of them. You see, I am at heart a king; one to whom forgiveness or contempt must be purely ridiculous. To myself, and no other, can I ever be answerable. Obviously a world of men and women of the type that is spawned nowadays was no place for me. I came out of it. I am alone, and I am the king, the king in exile, the king without a kingdom. Chance cannot affect that. It moves me from my right epoch and sets me down in a vulgar generation with absurd ideas that cannot understand me. Briefly, it denies me my kingdom, but can do no more. No, I am stronger than chance there. I am, in myself and all through myself, a king unalterably."

The old man's eyes glittered, and his manner was rapidly becoming more excited. Mr. Wilfred Camp was as rapidly becoming very nervous.

"I'm afraid," he said, "you find my visit a terrible intrusion. I was, as you saw, the victim of circumstances, but I thank you for your hospitality and will not trespass on it further. If you could kindly direct me to Venners-ley—"

"The old man looked away from him and muttered, as if to himself, "Two in 20 years." Then he suddenly turned to him again, raising his voice. "Address me properly, and on your knees."

Wilfred was down on his knees at once. "May it please your majesty to permit me to retire?"

"Very well. You will walk backward until you reach the door. On leaving the house you will not run unless you wish my dogs to run after
you. I shall not direct you on your way, for then you might return. You will get lost again. The other stranger got buried. You are kneeling on his grave at this moment. Out before I change my mind!"

Wilfred Camp rose and backed toward the door. As he reached it the madman made a rush at him, and he turned and ran. He neither saw nor heard anything of the dogs. At a little distance he took one look back at the cottage. The madman stood in the doorway, waving his knife and shouting: "I am the king of the world! I am the king!"

It was dawn when he reached, by chance, the highroad. Some days afterward an organized attempt was made to find the cottage, but with no success.
So some think Camp's story untrue;
others, that if it had been a lie it would have put him in a less ignominious position.—Black and White.

TWO SHOT

THE NEGRO DEAD AND THE WHITE MAN FATALLY HURT

Toy, Ala., Oct. 29—News reached the city of what is thought to be a double killing which occurred at Spring Hill eight miles south of here.

Henry Johnson, white, and a negro named Prior, had a dispute about a yearling and both being armed with shotguns they opened for each other, Johnson shooting Prior in the neck, killing him instantly. The negro, as he fell, shot Johnson in the upper portion of the chest and it is thought that he is fatally wounded.

WILL PROBABLY RECOVER.

L. Reives, the colored scavenger wagon driver who was kicked in the stomach by a mule yesterday morning, is better today. He was able to walk about the yard this morning, but is not yet out of danger.

AT THE CITY HOSPITAL

There are few patients in the city hospital at present and only eight, one a woman, are being regularly treated there. The hospital is reported in the best of condition and the pauper illness slight.

THE TRUST QUESTION

Young Men of the Y. M. C. A. are to Debate It.

The Local Option Question Will Then Be the Subject for Debate.

The Y. M. C. A. Debating club will meet tomorrow night and an interesting debate will be enjoyed.

Mr. Wood Briggs, assisted by Mr. George Poage, for the affirmative and Mr. Anderson Wood, for the negative, will be the principals, and there will probably be several others to take part before the debate is concluded. The subject is "Resolved that trusts shall be checked by law," a subject that is being discussed all over the country.

There will be constitution and by-laws presented and adopted at the meeting and the club will then be fully organized. It bids fair to become the most popular organization of the association.

Thursday a week from tomorrow, there will be a debate on the local option question and this will be open to visitors who will be allowed to participate. It is the intention of the management to secure several of the best lawyers in the city to take part and several of the most prominent ministers will also be asked to take part. The preliminary arrangements for this debate are being made today and the members of the association debating club are looking forward to the event with much interest.

The male chorus will meet at the association tonight for rehearsal. This will be the first regular meeting since the organization. There are 12 voices and all are anxious to make the chorus the best in the city. Prof. Dodd is the leader and will conduct the rehearsals. Secretary Hanna is arranging a Ping Pong tournament and already has several names entered on the list of entries. This will prove a feature of the association games and will be given within a few weeks, as soon as the list has been closed. Several members of the association have become expert in this game and there will be much contention for the championship.

MARRY IN NOVEMBER

Miss Mc Cutchen and Mr. Bichon Wed November 12th.

Marriage This Morning of Mr. Emery and Miss Ruby Vance.

Mr. Charles E. Bichon and Miss Gertie McCutchen, well known young people residing on the Cairo road, will be married November 12 at 8 p. m. at the home of the bride, Rev. Rupperecht, pastor of the German Lutheran church, officiating. The bride is only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William McCutchen and is a most popular and attractive young lady with many admirers. Mr. Bichon is a well known and prosperous young farmer, and the couple will reside in a new home Mr. Bichon is building on the Cairo road.

The marriage of Mr. Lorenzo Emery and Miss Ruby Vance took place this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the home of the bride on Jefferson street, Rev. G. W. Perryman officiating. The couple left at noon for St. Louis and Chicago on a bridal tour and will meet the groom's mother at Olney, Ill.

A Witty Pauper.

While walking through an old street in Stuttgart recently a man found a purse, and, thinking that it might contain something valuable, he stuck it hastily in his pocket and hurried home.

He examined it then and was disgusted to find that it contained nothing except these four lines in German on a slip of paper:

When you find this purse refrain from joy;

I'll tell you in a minute; I only threw it away because I hadn't a cent to put in it.

THEATRICAL NEWS.

"Roanoke," a pretty comedy-drama, was enjoyed by a large and well pleased audience at The Kentucky last night, and the new specialties gave additional satisfaction. Mr. George Howard made a happy hit as Dinah, a negro woman, and his support was excellent.

Mr. Harry Jackson as Ezekiel Morse, the miser villain, was very fine, and the other characters were well delineated. The specialties were good, and the Howard-Dorsets are generally pronounced the best repertoire company ever here. Tonight "The Little Gypsy," the best comedy bill in the repertoire, and written especially for Mr. Howard and Miss Dorset, will be presented, and a treat is assured all.

Considerable interest has been aroused among the amusement patrons of this city owing to the announcement of the early appearance of Harry Ward's Magnificent minstrels, and the indications are that The Kentucky will be packed to the doors Monday night. Seats will be on sale Saturday. Prices 25, 35 and 50 cents.

Miss Julia Marlowe, who is playing "The Queen Fiametta," has had to cancel engagements in the east on account of a serious illness, brought on by overwork.

It Yet Shall Be.

A sweeter song my soul has heard Than angel anthem lay of bird.

It cheers my heart in storm and night, And makes both storms and darkness bright.

The sweetest song that comes to me— The song of hope—it may yet be!

Is winter here? Have songbirds fled? They have but flown; they are not dead!

The snows will melt, and with the spring The birds return on joyous wing.

And flowers that faded long ago Will bloom again in summer's glow.

Though skies be black and dark the day draws near with blessed light.

So faces that have vanished here In heaven's bright morn will reappear.

Sweet voices that are hushed and still Will there again our spirits thrill.

Hopes may have flown, but not for aye, True hope will live a deathless day.

Above the clouds, beyond the night, Faith soars and sings in living light.

Thence comes the sweetest song to me, The song of hope—it yet shall be!

—H. H. Van Meter, in the Christian Endeavor World.

Japanese Had a Grievance.

A new reading has been given to the term "free wheel" in Japan. According to the Kobe Chronicle, a young gentleman was brought up at the Ku Saibausho the other day charged with stealing a bicycle. Asked why he had done the thing, he said he was a student of English, and seeing the bicycle standing idle near a doorway, an English friend told him that it was a free wheel, whereupon he had taken it out for a ride, when a policeman interfered and deprived both himself and the wheel of their freedom. "The English," as he told the judge, "is an atrocious language."

STEADY WORK IS WHAT COUNTS.

Masterpieces of the World Were Not Produced in a Hurry.

Anyone can hold out a dumbbell for a few seconds, but in a few more seconds the arm sags; it is only the trained athlete who can endure even to the minute's end, says the Atlantic Monthly. For Hawthorne to hold the people of "The Scarlet Letter" steadily in focus from November to February, to say nothing of six years' preliminary brooding, is surely more of an artistic feat than to write a short story between Tuesday and Friday.

The three years and nine months of unremitting labor devoted to "Middlemarch" does not in itself afford any criterion of the value of the book; but given George Eliot's brain power and artistic instinct to begin with, and then concentrate them for that period upon a single theme, and it is no wonder that the result is a masterpiece.

"Jan van Eyck was never in a hurry," says Charles Reade of the great Flemish painter in "The Cloister and the Hearth"—"Jan van Eyck was never in a hurry, and therefore the world will not forget him in a hurry."

THE RIVER NEWS.

Observations taken at 7 a. m. River 4.9 on the gauge, a fall of 0.5 in last 24 hours. Wind south, a light breeze. Weather clear and colder. Temperature 36. Heavy frost and thin ice formed. Pell, Observer.

The Joe Fowler cleared for Cairo on time this morning.

The Wilford arrived out of Cumberland river this morning.

The Richardson will arrive today from Evansville, but will be late.

The Charleston cleared for Tennessee river yesterday with a good trip.

The Clifton will pass out of the Tennessee river Friday en route to St. Louis.

The Duffy and Pavonia will arrive out of Tennessee river the latter part of the week.

The Carrville went into the Cumberland river yesterday and will return tomorrow.

The Bob Dudley did not get away for Evansville yesterday until 9 o'clock in the evening.

The Boaz and tow and J. B. Finley and tow arrived at Louisville from Paducah yesterday and laid up at Jeffersonville. Their crews came back to Paducah by rail.

The Henry Harley will leave this afternoon late for Tennessee river in the place of the City of Memphis, which has resumed St. Louis and Tennessee river trade.

The Cowling is off the ways and will be ready for running within a few days. The Mary Stewart, which has been in her trade, will then resume trips between Paducah and Good.

Returning towboats have gone to the bank as follows, on account of shoal water: John Cook, at Captina; Iron Age, Letart; John A. Wood, Gallipolis; Sam Clark, Marietta; Mariner, Opossum.

The new steamer John F. Klein, owned by the Pittsburg Dredging and Construction Co., has been launched from the docks of A. Axton and Son at Brownsville. The boat is considered one of the best yet built by that firm, and it will be equipped with the best modern appliances.

Captain Henry Fairfield was shot at by pirates at Cerro a few days ago as he was backing out from the bank with a fuel flat. Rivermen say that persons handy with a gun should not forget that Sidney Cole was sent to the penitentiary for eighteen years for shooting at the steamer Keystone State from the bank at Parkersburg, killing W. T. Terry, the boat's carpenter.

The Ford Herold had trouble with labor at Cairo. The crew jumped the boat when it reached there, and longshoremen refused to work for 25 cents per hour, demanding 40. A compromise was reached, by which they received a cent a sack for handling the 8,000 sacks of cotton seed which was the boat's cargo. All day long the thirty men secured worked on the run, each man receiving a penny every time he carried off a sack, and the mate sat on the bank and dealt out the 8,000 pennies. The crew were receiving $90 a month. The Georgia Lee, has a crew of Hungarians, accompanied by an interpreter. They receive $25 per month and board.

The big seven masted schooner Thomas W. Lawson left Philadelphia on Wednesday with 7,300 tons of bituminous coal for Boston. This is the largest cargo of coal ever carried in one vessel in this or any other country, and her arrival in Boston during one of the most acute coal famines in the history of the country will relieve much suffering, besides giving the citizens of the Hub still greater cause to rejoice in the fact that the money to build this magnificent vessel was furnished by capitalists of Boston and vicinity, and the Fore River Shipbuilding company of Quincy, who built her, are only a stone's throw from where she will discharge this valuable cargo.

DEATH OF A BLACKSMITH.
W. M. Arnett, age 74, a blacksmith of 112 North Tenth street, died last night of general debility and will be taken to Reevesville, Ill., today for interment. He had been a resident of the city two years and had made a host of friends who will regret to learn of his demise.

Lived Up to His Name.
Jim Pigg of Kansas is said to have been arrested for drinking two quarts of whisky in an insufficient time. Kansas being a Prohibition state, it seems that Mr. Pigg ought to have his name changed to the adult form.

HE TIPPED A DUKE.

Robert Barr's Great Generosity Was Not Accepted.

When I said I never gave a tip, writes Robert Barr, I ought perhaps to add that once upon a time I offered one, which, to my surprise, was not accepted. I engaged to write for an American paper some articles on the London parks, and I asked a friend how I could get accurate information regarding them.

"Nothing simpler," said the Englishman. "Drop a line to the ranger of Hyde park, and he will set you right."

I wrote a courteous note to the ranger, and told him I did not mind parting with a dollar or two if he could put me in the way of writing an interesting article. My communication was ignored, I again consulted my English friend, and told him the amount proffered.

"That was very generous of you," he said, sarcastically, "and I am amazed your munificence has not yet met a reader response, for the ranger of Hyde park is his royal highness, the Duke of Cambridge, uncle to the queen, and I am sure his expenses must be large!"

Inducement for Conversion.
In Fiji the whole people of Cikobia, and about half of the large town of Mua Levu, have gone over from Wesleyanism to the Seventh Day Adventists who have started a mission in Fiji. The inducement for this conversion en masse was to get two days of rest in the week.

As to Teeth of Horses.
The popular idea that the age of a horse can always be told by looking at his teeth," says a veterinary surgeon, "is not entirely correct. After the eighth year the horse has no more new teeth, so that the tooth method is useless for telling the age of a horse which is more than eight years old. As soon as the set of teeth is complete, however, a wrinkle begins to appear on the upper edge of the lower eyelid, and a new wrinkle is added each year, so that to get at the age of a horse more than eight years old you must figure the teeth plus the wrinkles."

Pointed Satire.
The late Henry Clay Miner, theater owner, patent medicine manufacturer and congressman from New York city, once registered in this fashion in the leading hotel of Syracuse: "Hon. Harry Miner and valet." A delegate to the convention that accounted for Miner's presence there was Daniel Donegan, a big man in the Tammany wigwag. He followed Miner to the desk, looked at the register and, with a grumbled comment as to the excessive tone and formality observed in fashionable hotels, wrote: "Hon. Dan Donegan and valet."

Arms and The Woman

By Harold MacGrath

Copyright, 1900, By Harold MacGrath.

But, with a low laugh, she disappeared behind the door. Gretchen was a woman. As a man must have his tobacco, so must a woman have her coquetry. It was rather unfair of Gretchen after what I had promised. It was like getting one in a cage and then offering sweetmeats at a safe distance. It now became a question of analysis. So I went to the river and sat down in the grass. A gentle wind was stirring the leaves, and the sunbeams, filtering through the boughs, fell upon the ground in golden snowflakes. What was Gretchen to me that I should grow jealous of her smiles? The night before I could have sworn that I loved her; now I was not so sure. A week ago all the sunshine in the world had come from Phyllis' face; now a shadow had come between. Oh, I knew the symptoms! They were not new to me. They had visited me some five years back and had clung to me with the tenacity of a creditor to a man with expectations. When a man arrives at that point where he wants the society of one woman all to himself, the matter assumes serious proportions. And a man likes to fall in love with one woman and continue to love her all his days. It is more romantic. It annoys him to face the fact that he is about to fall in love with another. In my case I felt that there was some extenuation. Gretchen looked like Phyllis. When I saw Gretchen in the garden and then went to my room and gazed upon the likeness of Phyllis, I was much like the bachelor Heine tells about—I dithered.

The red squirrel in the branches above me looked wise. He was wondering how long before the green burs would parch and give him their brown chestnuts. I was contemplating a metaphysical bur. I wanted to remain true to Phyllis, though there wasn't any sense in my doing so. Had Gretchen resembled any one but Phyllis I never should have been in such a predicament. I should have gone away the day after my arrival. Here I was going into my second week. My assistant in London was probably worrying, having heard nothing from me during that time. As matters stood it was evident that I could not be true either to Phyllis or Gretchen since I did not know positively which I loved. I knew that I loved one. So much was gained. I wanted to throw up a coin, heads for Phyllis, tails for Gretchen, but I couldn't bring myself to gamble on the matter.

A steamer came along then, puffing importantly, sending a wash almost at my feet. I followed it with my eye till it became lost around the bend. Over there was Austria and beyond the orient, a new world to me.

"If I could see them together!" I mused aloud.

The squirrel cocked his head to one side as if to ask, "Austria and Turkey?"

"No," said I, looking around for another stick, "Phyllis and Gretchen. If I could see them together, you know, I could tell positively then which I love. As it is, I'm in doubt. Do you understand?"

The squirrel ran out to the end of the limb and sat down. It was an act of deliberation.

"Well, why don't you answer?" I was startled to my feet by the laughter which followed my question. A few yards behind me stood Gretchen.

"Can't you find a better confidant?" she asked.

"Yes, but she will not be my confidant," said I. I wondered how much she had heard of the one-sided dialogue. "Will you answer the question I just put to that squirrel of yours?"

"And what was the question?" with innocence not feigned.

"Perhaps it was, Why should Gretchen not revoke the promise to which she holds me?"

"You should know, herr," said Gretchen gently.

"But I do not. I only know that a man is human and that a beautiful woman was made to be loved." Everything seemed solved now that Gretchen stood at my side. But she turned as if to go.

"Gretchen," I called. "Do not go. Forgive me. If only you understood!"

"Perhaps I do understand," she replied with a gentleness new to me. "Do you remember why I asked you to stay?"

"Yes; I was to be your friend."

"This time it is for me to ask whether I go or stay."

"Stay, Gretchen!" But I was a hypocrite when I said it.

"I knew that you would say that," simply.

Gretchen, sit down and I'll tell you the story of my life, as they say on the stage. I knocked the dead ash from my pipe and stuffed the bowl with fresh weed. I lit it and blew a cloud of smoke into the air. "Do you see that, Gretchen?"

"Yes, herr," sitting down, the space of a yard between us.

"It is pretty, very, but see how the wind carries it about! As it leaves my throat it looks like a tangible substance. Reach for it, and it is gone. That cloud of smoke is my history."

"It disappears," said Gretchen.

"And so shall I at the appointed time. That cloud of smoke was a for-ture. I reached for it, and there was nothing but the air in my hand. It was a woman's love. For five years I watched it curl and waver. In it I saw many castles, and the castles were fair indeed. I strove to grasp this love; smoke, smoke. Smoke is nothing given a color. Thus it is with our dreams. If only we might not wake!"

Gretchen's eyes were following the course of the languid river.

"Once there was a woman I thought I loved, but she would have none of it. She said that the love I gave her was not complete because she did not return it. She brought forth the subject of affinities and ventured to say that some day I might meet mine. I scoffed inwardly. I have now found what she said to be true. The love I gave her was the bud. The rose—Gretchen," said I, rising, "I love you. I am not a hypocrite. I cannot parade my regard for you under the flimsy guise of friendship."

"Go and give the rose to her to whom you gave the bud," said Gretchen. The half smile struck me as disdainful. "You are a strange wooer."

"I am an honest one." I began plucking at the bark of the tree. "No, I shall let the rose wither and die on the stem. I shall leave tomorrow, Gretchen. I shall feel as Adam did when he went forth from Eden. Whatever your place in this world is, it is far above mine. I am, in truth, a penniless adventurer. The gulf between us cannot be bridged."

"No," said Gretchen, the smile leaving her lips, "the gulf cannot be bridged. You are a penniless adventurer, and I am a fugitive from—the law, the king or what you will. You are a man. Man forgets. You have just illustrated the fact. His memory and his promises are like the smoke—they fade away but soon. I shall be sorry to have you go, but it is best so."

"Do you love any one else?"

"I do not. I love no one in the sense you mean. It was not written that I should love any man."

"Gretchen, who are you, and what have you done?"

"What have I done? Nothing! Who am I? Nobody!"

"Is that the only answer you can give?"

"It is the only answer I will give."

There was something in Gretchen's face which awed me. It was power and resolution, two things man seldom sees in a woman's face.

"Supposing, Gretchen, that I should take you in my arms and kiss you?" I was growing reckless because I felt awed, which seems rather a remarkable statement. "I know you only as a barmaid. Why not?"

She never moved to go away. There was no alarm in her eyes, though they narrowed.

"You would never forgive yourself, would you?"

I thought for a moment. "No, Gretchen, I should never forgive myself. But I know that if I ask you to let me kiss your hand before I go you will grant so small a favor."

"There," and her hand stretched toward me. "And what will your kiss mean?"

"That I love you, but also respect you, and that I shall go."

"I am sorry."

It was dismal packing. I swore a good deal softly. Gretchen was not in the dining room when I came down to supper. It was just as well. I wanted to be cool and collected when I made my final adieu. After supper I lit my pipe (I shall be buried with it) and went for a jaunt up the road. There was a train at 6 the next morning. I would leave on that. Why hadn't I taken Gretchen in my arms and kissed her? It would have been something to remember in the days to come. I was a man and stronger; she would have been powerless. Perhaps it was the color of her eyes.

I had not gone up the highway more than 100 yards when I saw the lonely figure of a man tramping indirectly toward me and directly toward the inn. Even in the dusk of twilight there was something familiar about that stride. Presently the man lifted up his voice in song. The "second lead," as they say back of the scenes, was about to appear before the audience.

Evidently Hillars had found "Jericho" distasteful and had returned to protest.

CHAPTER XI.

"Hello there!" he hailed, seeing but not recognizing me. "Have you seen any cavalry pass this way?"

"No; I have not," I answered in English.

"Eh? What's that?" not quite believing it was English he had heard.

"I said that no cavalry has passed this way since this afternoon. Are they looking for you, you jailbird in perspective?"

He was near enough now. "Well, I be dashed!" he cried. "What the devil are you doing here of all places?"

"I was looking for you," said I, locking my arm in his.

"Everybody has been making that their occupation since I left Austria," cursing lowly. "I never saw such people."

"What have you been doing this time?"

"Nothing, but I want to do some-away. They have been

I took the lieutenant by the collar and flung him into the corner.

hounding me all over the kingdom. What have I done? Nothing, absolutely nothing. It makes me hot under the collar. Do they think to find the Princess Hildegarde by following me around? I'd give as much as they to find her."

"So you haven't seen anything of her?"

"Not a sign. I came here first, but not a soul was at the castle. Nobody knows where she is. I came here this time to throw them off the track, but I failed. I had a close shave this noon. I'll light out tomorrow. It isn't safe in these parts. It would be of no use to tell them that I do not know where the princess is. They have connected me with her as they connect one link of a chain to another. You can kill a German, but you can't convince him. How long have you been here?"

I did not reply at once. "About ten days."

"Ten days!" he echoed. "What on earth has kept you in this ruin that long?"

"Rest," said I glibly. "But I am going away tomorrow. We'll go together. They will not know what to do with two of us."

"Yes; they will. You will be taken for my accomplice. Hark! What's that?" holding his hand to his ear. "Horses. Come, I'm not going to take any risk."

So we made a run for the inn. In the twilight haze we could see two horsemen coming along the highway at a brisk gallop.

"By the Lord Harry," Hillars cried excitedly, "the very men I have been dodging all day! Hurry! Can you put me somewhere for the time being? The garret, anywhere."

"Come on. There's a place in the garret where they'll never find you." I got him up stairs unseen. If no one but I knew him to be at the inn, so much the better.

"Oh, say! This'll smother me," said Dan as I pushed him into the little room.

"They'll put you in a smaller place," I said.

"Hang it all, Jack! I'd rather have it out with them."

"They have their pistols and sabers."

"That's so. In that case discretion is the better part of valor, and they wouldn't appreciate any coup on my side. Come back and let me out as soon as they go."

I descended into the barroom and found the two officers interrogating the innkeeper. They were the same fellows who had visited the inn earlier in the day. Gretchen was at her place behind the bar. She was paler than usual.

"Ah," said the innkeeper, turning to me, "am I not right in saying that you are the only guest at the inn and that no American has been here?"

I did not understand his motive, for he knew that I was an American.

"It is perfectly true," said I, "that I am your only guest."

"Ah, the Englishman!" said the lieutenant suspiciously. "We are looking for a person of the name of Hillars whom we are charged to arrest. Do you know anything about him?"

"It is not probable," said I nonchalantly.

I glanced at Gretchen. I could fathom nothing there.

"Well," snarled the lieutenant, "I suppose you will not object to my seeing your passports?"

"Not in the least," said I. But I felt a shock. The word "American" was written after the nationality clause in my passports. I was in for some excitement on my own account. If I returned from my rooms saying that I could not find my passports, they would undoubtedly hold me till the same were produced. "I'll go and bring them for you," said I. I wanted some time in which to mature a plan of action if action became necessary.

There was rather a sad expression in Gretchen's eyes. She understood to a fuller extent than I what was likely to follow when it was found that I had misrepresented myself. I cursed the folly which had led me to say that I was English, and I swore at the innkeeper for meddling. As I left the room I smiled at Gretchen, but she did not answer it. Perhaps I was gone five minutes. In that time I made up my mind to show the passports and trust to luck for the rest. When I came back, Gretchen had engrossed their attention. They took no notice of me. I have never understood how it came about, but all at once the lieutenant bent forward and kissed Gretchen on the cheek. She started back with a cry, then looked at me. That swift glance told me what to do. I took the lieutenant by the collar and flung him into the corner. The surprise on his face was not to be equaled. Then as he rose to his feet the veins in his neck swelled with rage.

"I'll pay you for that, you meddling beef eater!" he roared.

"Don't mention it," said I, with an assumption of blandness which I did not feel. "That was simply gratuitous. It is a sample of what I shall do to you if you do not immediately ask this lady's pardon for the gross insult you have just offered her."

"Insult! To kiss a common barmaid an insult!" he yelled, now purpling. "Why—why—what is this woman to you—this tavern wench, this—"

"Be careful," I warned. Gretchen was calmly wiping her cheek, but her eyes were like polished emeralds.

"You have come here, I believe," said I, "to see if my passports were proper."

"Curse you and your passports! Are you a gentleman?"

"Would you recognize one if you saw him?" I laughed.

"Can you fight?"

"Certainly," said I, thinking of the weapons nature in her kindness had given to me.

"Good! Otto, have the horses brought around. We will cut for the barracks and get the colonel's weapons, the rapier."

The word "rapier" sent an icy chill up my spine. A duel!

"The devil!" said I under my breath. I knew less about fencing than I did about aerial navigation, which was precious little. The fact that Gretchen was now smiling aggravated the situation. I could not help the shudder. Why, the fellow would make a sieve out of me!

"Will you look at my passports now?" I asked. "You may not have the opportunity again."

"Your passports from now on will be void," was the retort. "But I shall be pleased to give you a passport to the devil. I shall kill you," complacently.

"Think of my family," said I, a strange humor taking possession of me.

"You should have thought of your family before you struck me that blow," he replied.

My laughter was genuine. Even Gretchen snuggled a smile. The lieutenant had taken my remark in all seriousness. "You will not run away?" he asked.

"I shall probably be obliged to run away tomorrow," said I smoothly. "I should not be able to account for your presence here. But I shall await your return from the barracks, never fear."

All this was mere bravado. Honestly, I shrank within my clothes and shivered in my shoes. But I had an unflinching nerve. Some call it bluff.

Gretchen had been whispering to the innkeeper. When he moved from her side, she was smiling.

"What the deuce is she smiling about?" I wondered. "Does the woman take me for a modern D'Artagnan?"

"Innkeeper," said the lieutenant, "if this man is not here when I return I'll take satisfaction out of your hide."

The innkeeper shrugged. "I have never heard of an Englishman running away."

"And I have seen many a German do that," I put in. "How am I to know that your going to the barracks is not a ruse?"

He gasped. The words would not come which would do justice to his feelings. He drew off one of his gloves and threw it into my face. It stung me. I should have knocked him down but for the innkeeper stepping between.

"No, herr," he said; "do not disable him."

"You had best go to the barracks at once," said I to the lieutenant. My clothes were too small for me now, and I did not shiver in my shoes. My "Yankee" blood was up. I would have fought him with battleaxes.

"Herr," said the innkeeper when the two had made off for the barracks, "you are a man of courage."

"Thanks," said I.

"Do you know anything about rapier?" he asked.

"I know the handle from the blade; that's all. But that does not make any difference. I'd fight him with any weapon. He struck me, and then—then he kissed Gretchen."

"I have wiped it off, herr," said Gretchen dryly. Then she passed from the room. I went up stairs too. I looked out of my window. There was moonlight, possibly the last time I should ever see moonlight in the land of the living. Nothing but a mishap on my opponent's part and that early in the combat would save my epidermis. The absurd side of the affair struck me, and I laughed mirthlessly, but none the less I laughed. If it had been pistols, the chances would have been equal. A German does not like pistols as a dueling apparatus. They often miss fire. A sword is a surer weapon. And then the French use them—the pistols—in their flascos. Rapier? I was as familiar with the rapier as I was with the Zulu assagai. I unstrapped my traveling case and took out Phyllis' photograph. I put it back. If I was to have a last look at any woman, it should be at Gretchen. Then I got out my cane and practiced thrusting and parrying. My wrist was strong.

"Well," I mused, "there's consolation in knowing that in two hours I shall be either dead or alive."

I flung the cane into the corner. To pass away the time I paced back and forth. It passed too quickly, and it was not long ere I heard the clatter of the returning cavalymen. Some one knocked at my door. I swung it open and was thrown to the floor, bound and gagged in a tenth of a minute.

"Put him on the bed," whispered the leader of my assailants. When this was done, the voice added, "Now you can go to the stables and wait there till I call you."

It was the innkeeper. He surveyed me for a moment and scratched his chin.

"Will herr keep perfectly quiet if I take the handkerchief from his mouth?" he asked. I nodded, bewildered.

"What in tophet does this mean?" I asked. I did not say tophet, but it looks better in writing.

POLICE COURT

A Cutting Case Reduced to a Breach of the Peace.

Young Men Who Carried Pistols Were Fined Heavily.

Harry Lee and Ernest Jefferson, colored, were fined $25 and costs for a breach of the peace and the warrant against Jefferson for malicious cutting was dismissed. Lee, it will be remembered, had taken Jefferson's wife to a darktown social event and brought her home drunk in a cab.
Through "common courtesy" he entered her home at her invitation and found Jefferson inside. Jefferson then attacked him with the knife and arrests followed with the above results.

Marvin Sutherland, a young white man, was fined $35 and costs for carrying a pistol and sentenced to ten days in jail. He was arrested with the gun on him while partially under the influence of drink, and it was charged that he flourished the weapon in public. The warrant for the latter offense was dismissed.

Charles Pennington, white, was arrested last night while drunk and in the act of striking another with brass knucks. He was this morning fined $25 and costs for carrying the weapon and sentenced to ten days in jail.

Will Craig, white, who had a fight with Tom Farless, was fined $10 and costs for a breach of the peace.

Joe Torian, colored, was fined $20
and costs for gaming.

Bruce Gilliam and Tom Thompson,
white, were fined $3 and costs each,
for being drunk and disorderly.

RAILROAD NOTES.

ONLY A FEW MINOR MATTERS
REPORTED TODAY.

The gross earnings of 49 roads for the second week of October were $9,- 017,606 against $8,492,290 for the second week of October, 1901, an increase of $525,316. Thirty-eight roads show increases and eleven decreases. Since July 1, the roads referred to above carried $128,425,434, an increase of $8,896,466 over the $119,528,968 reported for the corresponding period
last year. For the longer period 39
roads show increases and ten decreases

The survey of the Tennessee Central between Clarksville, Tenn., and Hopkinsville, Ky., where connection with the Illinois Central is to be made, has been completed. The line is almost an air line, the greatest curve being only one degree. The distance between the two points is 29 1-2 miles,
and the extension is to be built as soon
as possible.

Albert Bass, the baggageman at Beaver Dam, a station on the Illinois Central road, was injured yesterday afternoon while unloading baggage from a car. A trunk fell on his head inflicting an ugly wound which was dressed by the local Illinois Central surgeon.

Train No. 101, the fast Louisville and Memphis passenger train, struck a wagon at Leitchfield yesterday afternoon and killed the mule and horse,
but did not injure the driver, who jumped. The wagon was wrecked.

Supervisor W. C. Wagover, the Illinois Central at Central City, arrived in the city this morning on business.

Mr. Leslie La Neve, chief clerk to Yardmaster Barrick, is ill and unable to be on duty.

SERIOUS RIOTS

OCCUR IN A FEW PORTO RICO TOWNS, GROWING OUT OF REGISTRATION.

San Juan, Porto Rico, Oct. 29—
Registration for elections in Porto Rico was finished yesterday. In spite of the strictest precautions, serious riots took place in a few towns. Five policemen and several citizens were killed in San Lorenzo. It is reported that several persons were killed in Patillas.
Further trouble is expected.

There is one case of yellow fever
on the United States cruiser Montgomey, which is in port.

SECOND BAPTIST REVIVAL.

The revival services at the Second Baptist church are being well attended and will be continued for another week. The afternoon services begin at 2:30 and the evening services at 7:30. Rev. J. G. Bow of Louisville is conducting the meeting.

—Mr. Claude Baker still continues to slowly improve, his many friends
will be pleased to learn.

Fancy Turns Towards Furniture

THESE beautiful autumn days. The housekeepers are busy from morn 'til night with the regular autumn house cleaning and the song of the tack hammer and the carpet stick fill the air. You find you need something here, and something there. This chair is broken, or the sofa is too dilapidated for ornament or use, you need more chiffoniers and chests to store away things. May be it is an entire new suit. But it doesn't matter just what particular thing it is, there is only one place to get it and that is at the Paducah Furniture Manufacturing Company.

OUR PLANT.

It is here the young housekeeper finds her money goes fartherest. Here the good managing housekeeper knows she can save enough on her furniture to fill the coal house. Here the head of the house knows he can find the comfortable chair to take the place of the one his wife says looks too bad to keep around. Here the lover of the finest of furniture turns to gratify his desires.
Here the poor working man turns when he needs anything for his humble little home. In fact, it is here a great big number of the people of west Kentucky come when they need anything at all in the furniture line. Knowing that, buying from us, they save 30 per cent.
